We used to go to the mall on weekends. It's a twenty minute drive from our house. When we get to the parking lot, we usually look for the closest spot to the mall to park our car. This mall is a two-story building so when we go to the second floor, we either take the elevator or the escalator, we're too lazy to take stairs. Today, I'd like to buy a Samsung Galaxy smart phone; unlike my family, who prefers Apple products. Every time we go to the mall my children want to go to the same stores: Hollister. After a couple hours, we're starving and head for the food court. At this food court, you probably gonna find American, Chinese and Mexican food. You can order your food to go, if you want to. After a good meal, everybody wants to catch a movie. Now we go to the movie theater inside the mall. After that, we call it a night and head back home.
